A young man in Fort Worth drew $1500 in the last Louisiana lottery drawing, and a man in Marlin drew $5000. It was one of the most unlucky things that could have happened for those towns. The effect will be felt for the next five years and the result will be to drain at least a hundred thousand dollars from Fort Worth and not less than twenty-five thousand from Marlin in that time. Waco sends now from a thousand to two thousand dollars per month to New Orleans, but fortunately she has yet drawn no large prize.

Rev. Thos. R. Markham, D. D., of New Orleans, will preach moraing and night, to-morrow, at the Presbyterian church, corner Eighth and Austin streets. Dr. Markham is one among the gifted and eloquent preachers of the United States. Of his profound learning, masterly elocution and brilliant rhetorical powers many of the people of Waco have vivid recollection, as he lectured here some years ago to crowded and delighted audiences and the church will no doubt be crowded to-morrow.

A good water works system is of in-estimable value just now. But for a good supply of water, the trees, shrubs, gardens and lawns which now make such an ornament to city homes would be a sorry sight just now but for the hydrants and the hose. After nightfall the sprinkler is going all over the city and front yards look as fresh as if there was no such thing as dry weather.

Chas. Rast's grocery corner Sixth and Austin streets, handles butter, eggs, vegetables and other country produce on commission and is enabled o give customers the benefit of prices You can always find country produce there, fresh and cheap, besides every-thing else in the grocery line.

A thousand eyes were turned last night, a little after sundown, to a promising cloud in the western hori-zon that seemed pregnant with prom-ise of rain. It was dissipated about ten o'clock but its presence gives reasonable hopes of rain to-night.

The toniest barber shop in town is that of Jeff Williams, the old "O. K." stand, Austin street, near the square. He has four tonsorial artists unsurpassed in the state, and a nice cool room. Everything kept nice and in the best of order.

The churches will all be open to-morrow and in them, eloquent speak-ers will discourse on the beauties of a good life and the destiny of men after death. In the mad struggle for money or the wild race after pleasure, there is no man but may profitably pause once in a while and ask him-self if this life is all, and the churches afford a fixe place for a liftile saintage. death. In the mad struggle for money or the wild race after pleasure, there is no man but may profitably pause once in a while and ask himself if this life is all, and the churches afford a fine place for a little salutary reflection of that kind.

Since then the authorities have widened the bridge over the ditch and put hand railing so that if foot passengers or teams now plunge into the yawing gulf, it must be by a voluntary act.

That Damage Suit.

The city is sued for damages. It seems there is a short space on South Ninth street where there are three or four guilles running diagonally across the street, which the city has neglected to fix until the Curiosity Shop, loaded with a set of furniture, a gasoline stove, a large mirror and a lot of dishes, ran in the ditch, tipped over, broke everything generally, hence the damage suit.

Cranfill and the Advance

Orannil and the Advance. While that lively little sheet, the Advance, has been removed to Dullas, the editor is still here in Wacc and the Wacc Curlosity Shop proposes to prohibit high prices on stoves and furniture and give notice now that they will have a full stock of both, and will make it hotter this full and winter than it was during the time that hell was full of preachers.

A large majority of the voters of Waco cast their ballot for the Waco Curiosity Shop.

The attention of the city council is called to South Ninth street, between Dutton and Cleveland streets. Their never has been any work done there, and it is almost impossible. The Cu-riosity Shop is in for a damage suit.
